

Katalin Viola graduated on BSc level as an agribusiness and rural development engineer on the Faculty of Economics and Social Sciences of Szent István University, focusing on Agribusiness, then graduated on MSc level as an economist of marketing, focusing on Marketing Knowledge and Information Management. She participates in agri-food researches and international and national projects, in addition she participates in the work of department Sensory and Consumer Sciences, as organizing and carrying out sensory assessments, and making their evaluations and reports.