

Zsófia Kertész graduated with a B.Sc. level as an environmental researcher from Faculty of Science of Eötvös Loránd University (ELTE), focusing on analytical chemistry. Then she graduated with M.Sc. level as a biochemical engineer from Technical University of Budapest in 2014, specialized in food quality control. Trained in sensory and consumer test evaluation. Experience in technology transfer and in knowledge transfer. Works at Campden BRI Hungary Ltd. as a development engineer.